ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Stored are data including image data representing a plurality of images, opposite side party data representing a plurality of opposite side parties of communication, combination

5   data representing the correspondence relation between the image data and opposite side party data and communication history data representing the history of communication. An image of image data corresponding to a pertinent opposite side party of communication is displayed in response to a call arrival

10   and/or a user's operation based on combination data stored in the memory part.